The following beautiful tribute, suitable o the occasion, has been handed us. It expresses prettily the desire of all those who rightly appreciate the services and mori fices of those who were immelated upon the altar of our country:

THE PLORAL OFFE RING. Oh, bring the flowers, the choicest flowers, Old, young, and children too, To beautify these cherished graves,

The soldier "boys in blue." Come from the north, and from the south Come from the east and word, And bring fresh floweredl wet with dow,

Exetics from the garden bowers A language ye can sing-And wild woods with your laurel wreaths Fit offering ye can bring; From the hillside and the wayside, Oh gather up the flowers, They bloom in beauty all around

O'er this fair world of ours. With nature's fairest flowers, We'll pray one fervent, longing prayer, That Heaven's own sun and showers, Would bless the graves far, far away. Unhonered and unknown-
